To the Protestant Episcopal Church, 19 August 1789

I sincerely thank you for your affectionate congratulations on my election to the chief magistracy of the United States.

The satisfaction arising from the indulgent opinion entertained by the American People of my conduct, will, I trust, be some security for preventing me from doing any thing, which might justly incur the forfeiture of that opinion. And the consideration that human happiness and moral duty are inseparably connected, will always continue to prompt me to promote the progress of the former, by inculcating the practice of the latter.
