The Episcopal Church Welcomes You

Mission Statement: "Loving God, Loving Our Neighbors"

Christ the King

The icon of Christ the King represents Jesus' powerful and yet gentle nature. The images in the four corners represent the gospel writers. The representation of Jesus as both the King and the Bringer of Peace is a duality that fits our modern understanding of Jesus.

The original of this icon is in the church of Santa Maria Maddalena in Venice. It was photographed by Jozef Sedmak and is licensed for St. George's use.

Pastor Gail's Ponderings...

Christ the King– Willing Subjects of the Kingdom

Christ the King Sunday is celebrated on the last Sunday of the season of Pentecost; this year it is on November 20. The next Sunday of the liturgical year is the First Sunday of Advent. Christ the King celebrates Christ's messianic kingship and sovereign rule over all creation. The Prayer Book collect for the last Sunday of the church year prays that God, "whose will it is to restore all things in your well-beloved Son, the King of kings and Lord of lords: Mercifully grant that the peoples of the earth, divided and enslaved by sin, may be freed and brought together under his most gracious rule " The feast was originally instituted by Pope Pius XI in 1925 and celebrated on the last Sunday in October. It has been observed on the last Sunday before Advent since 1970.

Jesus talked about the kingdom of God more often than any other subject. He used various stories and images to communicate "the Kingdom of God's" beauty and value. Jesus told us that God's kingdom is within us, and at the same time all around us, and yet we still look forward to its full realization when Jesus comes again.

The idea of Jesus as king might seem dated, or too patriarchal, or it might clash with our view of Jesus as teacher, healer, prophet, and compassionate friend. But we all need the annual reminder that Jesus is the one to whom we bend in obedience and that his rule of love sometimes leads us in directions that we might not want to go.

A song from the Taizé Community describes the realm when Jesus rules:

The kingdom of God is justice and peace, And joy in the Holy Spirit. Come, Lord, and open in us, The gates of your kingdom. Jesus changes the worldly vision of power and might into a gentle vision of justice and peace. We in the church work as co-creators of God's kingdom. We keep our confirmation promises in mind: "to serve all people, following the example of our Lord Jesus, and to strive for justice and peace in all the earth." Placing our lives and our decision-making under the lordship of Jesus our King is not always easy. It is hard work and requires courage, openness, humility, and patient persistence. Yet our deepest partnership with Jesus our King happens when we do the work of God's kingdom.

The Gospel writer Luke tells us in his Passion narrative, Chapter 23, "Then Pilate asked Jesus, 'Are you the king of the Jews?' Jesus answered, 'You say so.'"

Let us pray:

Heavenly King, we ask you to rule our hearts and equip us to work in your kingdom. Give us the courage to affirm our baptismal life by keeping its promises and make us instruments of your justice and peace.

Amen

Episcopal Church Women by Betty Jo Hoffman

We had a nice turnout for our meeting with great food provided by Sue Phelps. She also brought our program speakers: Carol Sherwood and Brenda Mickowski from Youth for Christ. We learned that Youth for Christ is the umbrella organization for City Life, Parent Life, and Campus Life. There are many more programs under the umbrella in larger cities.

Youth for Christ started in 1945 and came to Douglas County in 1981. They help and support the youth in our community. They meet with young people both in and away from school. They are very active and provide a lot of information and support for young families and single parents as well as expectant mothers and dads and those looking for spiritual guidance.

They shared a lot of information. They noted that the young people today are not growing up in the same world we grew up in, so they are in need of different help and information than when we were young.

Children's Services has already contacted us for our Giving Tree; they will bring us 22 names. Mik Carlson has already made the adorable name tags.

Sue pointed out the Auto Accident information forms on the bulletin board by Pastor Gail's office. That is also where we post thank you notes sent to our church and newsletters from community organizations. Check it out. (See page 4 for details.)

Our next meeting will be Nov. 17, 11:00 with lunch provided by ...?

Thelma's Thought for the Day

"We all have guardian angels and they never take a vacation or a day off." The business part of the meeting was mainly RUMMAGE SALE. We will be open

Thurs., Nov. 10, 4-6, Fri., Nov. 11 (Veterans Day), 9-4 Sat., Nov. 12, 9-noon

We are hoping the parade on Friday will bring us customers. We will do a $5 bag day on Thursday and Friday and a $2 bag day on Saturday. Remember your donations!

Help Wanted

I appreciate the help you all have given the ECW ladies in past rummage sales. This time, I am asking for help from all of the congregation.

The sale will be on Nov. 11 and 12. (Yes, we know that will be on the same day as the Veterans Day parade. We hope people will visit our sale before and after it.) We will start setting up on Sun., Nov. 6, after church.

There will be an area for individually priced items. I am asking you to price your own items for this area that you do not want to be in the bag sale. You can use stickers or masking tape. When pricing, think about when you go to a sale and you find something priced that you can't possibly pass it up. Keep in mind, our goal is to offer items that people want or need at a price they can afford and don't want to miss out on.

If you are able, your help sorting items during the week and your help on Saturday cleaning up will be greatly appreciated. Remember, first come, first "gets!" We have the opportunity to purchase items before the sale as we sort, so we get really good deals. And, of course, we need your donations to have a successful sale.

Thank you for your help in the past and this November.

~ BJ Hoffman, ECW President

Upcoming and FYI

All Saints' Sunday

Nov. 6: Bring photos to put on the altar in memory of those who are saints in your life.

Rummage Sale

Thurs., Nov. 10, 4-6, Fri., Nov. 11 (Veterans Day), 9-4 Sat., Nov. 12, 9-noon See details on page 3.

FISH Food Sundays

We haven't done this for a long time! We will have a FISH Food Sunday Nov. 13. Let's try to fill up our FISH basket. And just in case you forget or won't be in church on the 13th, we will have Food Sunday on the 20th.

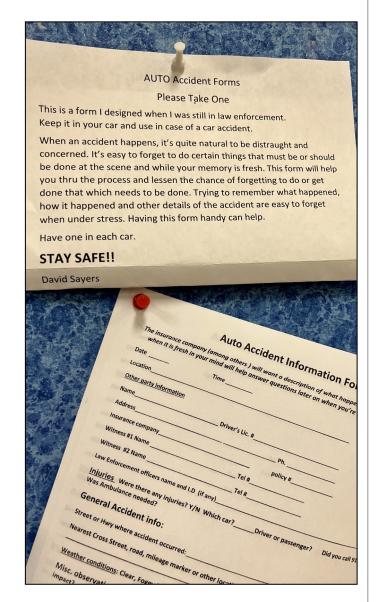

Decorating the Church for the Holiday Season

Yes, it is time to start planning for Christmas. The first Sunday of Advent is Nov. 27, so the greens swags need to go up around the rafters on or before the 26th. We will turn on the lights Dec. 4. We will also have the Giving Tree up for you to take names on Nov. 27th. We will put up the rest of the decorations around the church on Dec. 10. The large wreaths will go up about Dec. 17. Your help is always appreciated.

> Thank you, BJ

Had an Auto Accident?

There are forms for recording information on the bulletin board next to Pastor Gail's office. Thank you, David Sayers!

Southern Convocation Quarterly Meeting

Sat., Dec. 3, at St. George's. Even if you aren't a delegate, you are invited to come observe. And your homemade treats would be welcomed!

Blessing of the Animals

On October 1, the Annual Blessing of the Animals took place in front of Jacoby Auditorium at Umpqua Community College. The Rev. Nancy Gallagher of St. John the Divine Episcopal Church in Springfield presided, along with our own Pete Benham and Captain Edith Dye-Mabie of the Salvation Army. This occasion is organized every year by Cheryl Donahoo.

Pete blesses the cat in its carrier as well as the dog. All but two of the participating critters were canines, with the exceptions being this cat and one tortoise.

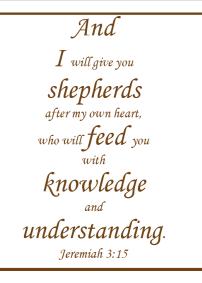

Captain Edith blesses Ellie Benham while Faye looks on.

Rev. Nancy blesses the basket of stuffed animals.

All Saints' Day and All Souls' Day

The feast day of All Saints has its origins in the feast of All Martyrs, a day on which the Church remembered those martyred for the faith who were not individually remembered by name. Eventually the feast became "All Saints," and the date was moved to the first of November. On this feast, which comes at a time of year when the days are darkening, we hear readings that depict the persecuted with their white robes washed in the blood of the Lamb. It marks a sharp turn from the themes we have been hearing since Pentecost (the teachings of Jesus and stories of his ministry), and begins to emphasize an eschatological reality that leads us to face into the darkness and death all around us.

All Saints' Day is, therefore, one of the four principal feast days on which baptisms are especially appropriate. The connections with death and the dead highlight the fact of baptism as a death and the incorporation of the baptized into a communion of saints past as well as present.

Often the feast of All Saints is confused with All Souls: a day on which the church remembers the beloved of the community who have died. Most Americans have heard of the Mexican-American

"El Dia de los Muertos" (Day of the Dead) celebrations, which include cleaning and decorating the graves of departed loved ones and constructing shrines in the home to commemorate the dead.

Many Episcopal Churches include in their liturgy for All Saints or All Souls the recitation of the names of those buried on the church grounds and names of other deceased loved ones of the community. The recitation is often conducted during a procession through the church graveyard, memorial garden, and/or columbarium area. Such a recitation reinforces the status of the dead as members of the body of Christ who can continue to illumine our way in the life of faith. The yearly remembrance also gives the community an opportunity to surround those who mourn as part of the regular rhythm of liturgical life.

While the contemporary cultural norm would have us stringing up reams of twinkle lights to combat the darkness and our fear of death, the Christian tradition would have us look directly into this reality unflinchingly, with the Saints as our luminaries. Indeed, we will need their light more and more as we move to and through the season of Advent, with its readings depicting a world turned upside down.

Although our monthly pledges were under budget, our Year-to-Date budget is still above budget. Much of that is because the gift we usually receive at year end came after the first of the year and is therefore included in this year's budget. That being said, we are considerably behind where we should be. Please get your pledges up to date. Thank you for your help and support!

Inspiration

The student was crying when he boarded John Lunceford's bus. Lunceford noticed how red the student's exposed hands and ears were after he'd waited for the bus in the freezing temperatures that morning. "I put my gloves on him and told him it'll be OK, it'll be OK," says Lunceford, a U.S. Army veteran in his third year driving buses for Kennewick School District.

Right after dropping his bus full of students at school, Lunceford headed to a dollar store. He bought ten stocking hats and ten sets of gloves, in black or pink, and headed back to the school. He didn't know the student's name so had an administrator help track him down.

They found the boy in the library with his class and Lunceford handed a hat and pair of gloves to him. "I'm a grandfather, you know," Lunceford says. "No one wants a kid to suffer like that."

The onset of winter weather means families need to send their students off each day wearing heavy coats as well as hats and gloves or mittens. Our staff is always willing to help families find any items they need. The little boy won't be the last student Lunceford helps out.

He told all the students in the school's library that if they were on his route and didn't have hats or gloves, he'd take care of them.

"There was a little girl who said 'I don't have a hat,' and I said I'll take care of you, sweetie," Lunceford says.

Inspiration

Let the birds rise up from the wetlands, pin-wheeling through the salty sea air, sun sparkling on their wings. Let the herds walk majestically by, in long train arrayed, crossing the prairie with a dignity countless years old. Let the fish dart between the cold river rocks, silhouettes of life almost unseen, so suddenly do they turn in their weightless world. Let the human family proclaim, across the breadth of this spinning blue ball, calling out to their kin from every clan of sentient being: we see you, we need you, we honor you still.
